ABOUT THE STATE FAIR

The greatest collection of Indian exhibits ever gathered will be seen at the New Mexico State Fair in Albuquerque in October. The exhibits will be participated in by every reservation and Indian school in the state and will form one of the big features of the state fair.

The office of Indian affairs at Washington placed its sanction upon the exhibits and its assisting the superintendents of reservations and schools in the state. Superintendent Bauman of the Zuna reservation is at work on that exhibit, and superintendent Stetson of the Navajos is likewise getting ready for the annual fair held on the reservation, planning to take the fair bodily to Albuquerque, after it had been held at Shiprock.

The Indians at Mesquero will also be at the fair with big exhibits.

The Indians will show their agricultural products, their modes of living, live stock, industrial pursuits such as weaving, making gold and silver ornaments, making shell chains etc. They will be gathered on an Indian encampment at the fair, each exhibit will have its separate space and exclusive cover.

The counties will occupy the greatest amount of space ever set aside at a state fair for this department. Some of the counties have contracted for as much as 400 feet of space. An immense circus tent, 200 by 300 feet will be necessary for the county exhibits as it is expected that every county in the state will be represented as a unit in the exhibit hall. Not a county approached thus far has refused to make an appropriation for the purpose of gathering an exhibit and sending it to the fair. San Juan county is to spend $1000, Valencia county $500 Rio Arriba county a like amount and Colfax will spend whatever is necessary to gather the most comprehensive display ever gotten together in northern New Mexico. Bernalillo will, of course, do its share and will use a big space in showing the development of that section of the Rio Grande Valley.

One of the attractions at the fair this year will be the U. S. Cavalry troops from Columbus with their big band and their polo team. This will be the first time that the people of this state have had an opportunity to see this most exciting of all American sports.

The Cadets of the New Mexico Military Academy will also be at the fair as guests of the fair management. The boys will be encamped on the grounds and will put on for the instruction of the fair visitors the drills and athletic sports of the institution. The cadets will also take their band. This will mean eight bands in Albuquerque during fair week, including the world-famous Kilbuck Band which is costing the fair management thousands of dollars.
